Accountability and Power: Practicing Social Justice in Clinical Social Work with Carmen Crosby, PhD, LMSW

This workshop focuses on clinical practice with a social justice lens. This includes exploring assumptions about power inherent in therapeutic practices such as helping people modify ineffective patterns and enhance skill use. Participants will be encouraged to explore personal beliefs about ourselves and our clients to shed light on transference, countertransference, power and oppression in and outside of the therapy room.

Carmen Crosby, PhD, LMSW, is an accomplished interventionist, dually licensed in direct and macro practice, who specializes in clinical practice, social equity and cultural diversity, health equity, victimization, and recovery. Dr. Crosby consults with the military and other agencies to explore their culture and practices, increase sensitivity and value congruence, particularly around areas of sexuality, gender, race, and trauma. She also provides supervision for therapists and supervisors. She uses energy, plain talk, and humor to engage participants in difficult topics.

Pre-registration is required for attendance. Early bird prices available for each workshop!
