

CLINICAL LECTURE SERIES

UNC- Chapel Hill
School of Social Work

Clinical Lecture Series
and Institutes

What is the clinical lecture series?

WHAT: Clinical Lectures are 1-2 hours between classes. We offer Institutes, which are all day long trainings that go more in depth.

HOW MUCH: CLS are free to students. Institutes are $10 w/a code.

WHY: Learning's fun! Plus, these count as CE towards field seminar.

HOW: Register at this link sww.unc.edu/sswevents and log in with your ONYEN. You may see a fee at first, but before you check out it should change to $0. If the problem persists, e-mail Akshata Malur at akshata@email.unc.edu

ARE THEY RECORDED: Recordings of past events are part of the Self-Paced clinical lecture series, which include a post-test, and count toward the field seminar CE requirement. View them here:

<https://sww.unc.edu/sswevents/online>

How is CLS different from some of the other training programs?

Field Education Training is a new program, created due to COVID, to help ensure that students fulfill all of their field competencies in their learning agreement. You may count these towards the CE credit for field seminar or field placement hour requirements, but not both.

Professional Development workshops are offered through Student Services by Monique Tuset. These do not count as CE credits.

Clinical lecture series and institutes are made available to current MSW students and professionals as part of their Continuing Education. Invite your field instructor to join you as a way to sharpen your skills together!