Expressive Arts in Clinical Practice

with Hillary Rubesin, PhD, LPCS, REAT and Laurie Selz-Campbell, MSW

This workshop covers theory, methods, and practice of expressive arts and how to integrate it into clinical work. Participants will also engage in a multi-leveled experiential activity drawing on a public narrative process.

Hillary Rubesin, PhD, LPCS, REAT, is executive director of the Art Therapy Institute, a nonprofit organization in Carrboro, NC, where she provides supervision and she and Laurie co-facilitate the Arts and Peer Support Group a free, weekly, community-based arts group for adults living with severe and persistent mental illness groups. Her clinical work focuses primarily refugee and immigrant women and children in local schools and community-based settings.

Laurie Selz-Campbell, MSW, is a clinical associate professor at the UNC School of Social Work, where she teaches courses in social justice, disability, the life course, and mental health recovery. She has much experience working with adults living with severe mental illness. She helped implement the first structured peer support program in NC and is committed to bringing the voices of individuals with lived experience into pedagogy.

PRE-REGISTRATION IS REQUIRED. Ask about Learning Together discounts that support MSW students and their field faculty to participate together! Early bird discounts and scholarships also available. Join in person or via interactive live stream!
